CWA Local 1014

CWA Local 1014 is part of the Communications Workers of America. The CWA represents 700,000 workers in private and public sector employment in the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico in 1,200 chartered CWA local unions. In 10,000 communities across the United States, CWA members work in telecommunications and information technology, the airline industry, news media, broadcast and cable television, education, health care and public service, law enforcement, manufacturing and other fields. Founded in 1938, CWA got its start representing telephone workers as the National Federation of Telephone Workers. It was renamed the Communications Workers of America in 1947. Today CWA represents workers in all areas of communications, customer contact, high technology, and manufacturing professions in both the private and public sectors, including health care, public service, education, customer service, airlines, and many other fields.

Local 1014 is in CWA District 1 which includes more than 175,000 members in 328 CWA local unions in New York, New Jersey, New England, and Eastern Canada. The Communications Workers of America (AFL-CIO) represents more than 70,000 working families in New Jersey, including more than 40,000 state workers, 15,000 county and municipal workers, and thousands of workers in the telecommunications and direct care industries.

Local 1014 is governed by its members through regular membership meetings, pursuant to the Local's Constitution and Bylaws. The President oversees the day-to-day affairs of the Local. He is elected by vote of all Local members, along with the Vice President, Financial Secretary-Treasurer, Recording Secretary, Corresponding Secretary and Sergeant-at-Arms. In addition, Local 1014's leadership includes Trustees and Shop Stewards who represent their respective bargaining units. The Board of Trustees meets monthly to conduct local business.

To help members learn more about their representatives, we issue this directory. You can contact your representative directly or through this office.
