

Democracy Champions Training

Frequently Asked Questions

---

Q: What is the Democracy Champions training about?

A: The Democracy Champions training is a popular education program of the Democracy Initiative Education Fund. The training is part of the Democracy 365 campaign to increase your members' civic participation and engagement year-round to expand access and participation in democracy.

---

Q: What will I learn?

A: "Democracy Champions" popular education program trains staff, members, and volunteers from the Democracy Initiative's coalition partners to make the connection between democracy, money in politics, voting rights, and their everyday kitchen table issues ----- while developing skills to win field campaigns.

---

Q. What is a "Democracy Champion"?

A. You're a Democracy Champion. A Democracy Champion is a grassroots activist who fights for democracy reforms across the country. Through your efforts, we will move toward our vision of universal voter registration, increased participation, and 100% of votes counted; elections funded by citizens, not corporations; and a government that truly represents and reflects us.

---

Q: What is the goal of Democracy Champions training?

A: The goal of the training is to mobilize millions to create that grassroots cadre of leaders. Participants will come away from the training motivated, prepared and empowered to take on specific democracy reform campaigns.

- Motivated: understanding that democracy is about power – without a functioning democracy, we don't have the power to win the changes we need.
- Prepared: practicing effective conversations that make the connection between democracy and the core, motivating issues that people are passionate about.
- Empowered: plugged into local campaigns with specific action commitments.

---

Q: What does the day look like?

A: The Democracy Champions is a day-long training that uses a popular education model, drawing on the participants' personal experiences and values. Trainers will not be lecturing or spelling out conclusions, but instead, provide opportunities for the participants to make connections and draw their own conclusions through one on one conversations and group discussions.

---

Q: What does it cost to attend Democracy Champions Training?

A: The training is free. The training will provide light breakfast and lunch as well as all training materials. Participants are responsible for their own transportation to and from the training.

---

Q: Where will Democracy Champions training be held this year?

A: The Democracy Champions trainings will first launch in Michigan, Missouri and Florida in the months of June and July.