

Can You Spare One Minute a Week to Save the Planet?

Stop what you're doing. We're at the 11th Hour For Climate.

It's getting late, and Earth needs a minute of your precious time. Just one minute, every week on Thursday from 11:00-11:01 a.m. Like clockwork. Wherever you are, stop what you're doing, to silently strike for climate action.

We need you and everyone you know, to stop at 11:00 a.m. every Thursday to say "Yes" to climate action. This event is called the 11th Hour For Climate. It can take place anywhere: in your workplace or at home, in the park or in your classroom.

The science is crystal-clear. Life-threatening climate change is happening right now, as you read this. The unbridled industrial world we have created is perpetuating rapid, dangerous climate change that is leading all life on Earth down a path to extinction.

We've got no time to lose. Let's work together and stay motivated on our common path to preserve a habitable climate and ensure a future for flora and fauna, and ourselves, our children, and their children.
