

Fridays for Future Austria invites you to attend Livestream Events spotlighting MAPA - Most Affected People and Areas -

Mumbai Worli sea link PHOTO: Aditya Kapoor / Climate Visuals Countdown

 The climate crisis does not exist in a vacuum. Climate change will not affect us all in the same way, and intersectionality refers to the need to recognize this. Climate change will terribly impact hunger, poverty, and different social groups.

In advance of the Fridays for Future Global Climate Strike on 24 September 2021, Fridays for Future Austria has organized a new series of livestream events for activists and others to attend.

WHAT: A Livestream Series about MAPA to spotlight the profound and all-encompassing problems of climate breakdown and how we are all affected, and how we can all be agents of hope and change for the greater good.

WHERE: Link to the live-streamed event on FFF Austria's Facebook page at 13.30 GMT on 3 Sept.

WHO: Presented by Fridays For Future Austria

WHEN: The first event, with the topic of West Maharashtra, India, takes place on Friday, September 3rd, at 13:30 GMT.

More events follow every Friday throughout September and October.

10 September What Movimiento Ecologico Estudiantil does in Guatemala

17 September 16 GMT Cote d'Ivoire

24 September forthcoming

1 October 16:00 GMT Mali forthcoming

8 October forthcoming

15 October forthcoming

22 October MAPA in Europe forthcoming

29 October forthcoming

Put in your calendar now.

WHY: Learn more about "intersectionality" first-hand and how you can help shape the big picture in a positive way. The presentations will visit activists from the Most Affected People Areas: their work, the challenges they face, and the environmental issues in their countries will be presented. Become versed in the very personal and specific stories you will hear so that you can become a catalyst for change on a global level.

Photo credit: World Meteorological Organization

By the Calendar team: Marta, Ann, Alfred, Rolf, Elvin, and Ayesha