

Leadership Theories & Styles

Oct. 13 - 20, 2021

New Session Added!

ABOUT THIS COURSE

This class will explore several leadership types and how they apply to labor union leadership. Students will dive into how to understand the characteristics of leaders and how to develop the skills they need to grow and strengthen their leadership and their local union. Participants will learn and evaluate the difference between managing and leading and assessing strengths, interpreting key leadership practices and applying different leadership models and practices to their situations.

This class, for currently serving Local Union Officers, Officials, Trustees, and Board members is a virtual complement to the in-person IATSE Officer Institute. It is focused on effective leadership principles and tools to help attendees to build a high-capacity local union, effectively represent workers, communicate clearly, and set and achieve long term goals.

The instructor for this class is Don Taylor, Professor, University of Wisconsin School for Workers

ATTEND INDEPENDENTLY AND AT YOUR OWN PACE

Learning is asynchronous! That means that during the week of the course, students will complete the lessons on their own schedule, for a total time of approximately 6-8 hours over the course of the week. Lessons include short readings, videos, recorded PowerPoints, quizzes, and discussion boards where reflective questions will be posed and students post responses and comments for the instructor and classmates.

WHO CAN ENROLL?

This class is open only to Officers, Officials, Trustees, and Board members of IATSE Local Unions. Class size is limited, so enroll early to avoid disappointment. There is a limit of three (3) individuals per local union.
