If We Are Not at the Table, We Are on the Menu.

Making sure our legislators know who we are and what we need from them is a central part of the work we do in Rapid Response, and we know nobody can do that better than our members. Building a communication network at the local union level is the foundation of the non-partisan work Rapid Response does around legislative issues that impact our collective bargaining rights, safety and health, job security, healthcare, and retirement security. We engage in the fights that help us build family-supportive, good jobs and strong communities. The fights that reflect our values and a vision of the America that works for workers.

We are excited to announce District 11 will be holding a series of Presidents' meetings and Rapid Response trainings across the district, and we would love for you to attend. Below is information regarding the meeting in your state:
